

ATA Turkish Balanced Retrun

Portfolio Manager's Comments

October 2017

Turkish equities and fixed income markets made a strong start to 2012. Ata Balanced Fund managed to participate in this rally to a large extent. We kept our equity exposure moderate during this rally due to continuing worries about Europe. Nonetheless, inline with its strategy, the fund benefited from government bonds and money market allocations generating solid returns – consequently achieving a top-3 ranking amongs its local peers. Looking ahead, after a very strong January, we expect to see some pull back in markets. However, we see this as an opportunity to be taken advantage of in a selective manner. In fact, Turkish equities are still trading at a 10% discount vs. their emerging markets peers.

Investment Objectives

Ata Balanced Equity Fund invests primarily in Turkish equities, fixed income and money markets in an effort to participate in the growth of Turkish economy. Furthermore the structure benefits from relatively high interest rates offered by Turkish government and private bonds and money markets compared to low global interest rates. The overall aim is to generate attractive returns while mitigating volatility driven potential periodic disruptions. The fund has a preference for liquid securities both in equity and fixed income markets. While the fund pursues a well-diversified portfolio among Turkish liquid asset classes, it aims to dynamically manage asset allocation between equity, fixed income and money markets in an effort to achieve the highest possible return for its investors.
